Motion Picture Presentation

Sleep is a disturbing psychological horror that questions one woman's sanity within the confines of her own home. Following a series of sinister and unexplained events happening in the apartment beneath her.

Based on a true story.

The True Story

Fiona lived in an apartment on Lowestoft drive in Slough, England. For 3 months she endured the sound of a woman screaming, multiple voices shouting, eerie chanting and violent sounds of destruction coming from the apartment beneath her. This happened night after night until she finally called the police when she thought someone was being murdered. When the police finally came, Fiona stood at the top of the stairs to listen. The woman had a completely different voice to what Fiona had heard and there was no one else in the apartment. No other residence ever heard her and she disappeared soon after and was never seen again.

You cannot stand-up to the night until you understand what is hiding in its shadows...

What is Sleep Paralysis?

Sleep paralysis is a frightening phenomenon in which a person either during falling asleep or awakening temporarily experiences an inability to move, speak or react. This can be accompanied by malevolent hallucinations (e.g. a black figure, a witch, an alien etc). Feelings of fear, a crushing pressure on the chest and sometimes people feel a sexual encounter with the unknown. This phenomenon has haunted 1000's of people around the world. It occurs to both men and women and can happen at anytime in ones life with multiple attacks possible.

One version of Sleep Paralysis is known as 'The Old Hag Syndrome' which the protagonist encounters. This terrifying nightmare is often described as a creepy old woman in dark clothing sitting on top of its victim's chest while trying to strangle them.
